SET AT THE BASE OF THE GALLATIN MOUNTAINS, this home embodies the form of traditional mountain architecture on the exterior, while the interior trim and finish create a contemporary atmosphere. The expansive views of the North Bridger Mountains are framed by the vaulted great room space. Designed as an all-season family retreat, a wrap around deck provides comfortable shaded seating in the summer and covered grilling area in the winter. This space gives prospect over the well thought out landscape features and valley views beyond.

The master wing was envisioned as a private retreat from the main living areas. A series of stone columns creates a procession to the master suite. Privacy is achieved by a transitional bridge set between aspen clusters, providing a sense of solace from the activities of the primary gathering spaces.

The lower level space is anchored by a stone staircase and wine room display. Paired with this space, an additional entertainment space connects the landscape and spa features to the interior. Additional guest bedrooms flank the social core.

ABOUT the BUILDER

Joel Sumner and Dan Blackford

THE TRADITION CONTINUES AT J&D CUSTOMS, INC. A partnership collaboration between Joel Sumner and Dan Blackford. Both long time employees of Tim Dean Construction, Inc., they took over operations of the company in 2016 as Tim and Mary started a much, deserved retirement. Joel and Dan are committed to continuing the legacy of excellence in construction, and attention to detail.

As a design-build company, J&D Customs works directly with customers to provide a completely customizable experience. Start to finish, their focus is consistently on the details. Using a combination of modern innovation and time, honored craftsmanship, J&D Customs will create a home that is both aesthetically appealing as well as efficient and functional.

Joel and Dan have spent years developing great working relationships with the best subcontractors and suppliers in the Gallatin Valley, all who share the same pride in their trades and attention to detail that J&D Customs expects.

If you are interested in an honest, straightforward approach to the home building process, please consider J&D Customs, Inc. for your next project.
